The Purpose of Rank Advancements

Due to 4-H's focus on youth development through the unique implementation and use of projects, 4-H continues to thrive as the largest out-of-school educational program in the United States. Through scientific research and study, the Essential Elements of Positive Youth Development were formed. These elements are categorized into four areas: Belonging, Independence, Generosity, and Mastery ("Big M"). These ranks are designed as a tool for volunteers and youth to set goals and progress in their chosen project areas. The required skills and experiences are benchmarks for youth participants during their 4-H experience to incorporate "Big M". Due to the progressive intensity of tasks the advancement rate is affected by age, personal development, and prior achievement. Youth should be challenged at an appropriately achievable level.

Incorporating the Rank Advancements

The rank advancements are designed to build off each other and should be completed in order.

Youth are encouraged to pass off one to two ranks per 4-H age division (junior, intermediate, and senior) and should not get discouraged if it takes several years to finish a rank. Junior and Intermediate aged 4-H youth may pass off 1 rank per year. Senior aged 4-H youth may pass off multiple ranks per year.

Similar skills and requirements are found at each level, however in order for a skill to be passed off, the specific event or performance CANNOT have been used in a different level. Rather, youth should be encouraged to pass off the same/similar skill in a different environment or to a different audience to truly get the most out of these rank advancements. For example, entering a portfolio in the state 4-H portfolio contest in 2020 could only count towards one rank advancement. Competing in a second state 4-H portfolio contest could then be counted towards that same requirement in the next level. Skills and requirements for each level should be completed within 3 years of the time the youth wants to complete the level.

Youth with multiple horse projects may choose to complete a separate rank advancement book for each horse, but it is not necessary. Rather, the book is cumulative of their entire experience regardless of which horse they used for their project.

The Utah 4-H Horse Program Rank Advancements are designed as a tool for participants to set goals and achieve mastery within their project. Designated county 4-H faculty and staff, and volunteer leaders who have completed Level 1 of the Utah 4-H Horse Volunteer Certification may proctor and sign on off these ranks. Additionally, senior aged 4-H youth who have accomplished the first four ranks, or with the guidance and assistance of a Level 1 Utah 4-H Horse Volunteer, can help all youth pass off ranks 1 – 3.

Awards and Recognition

Youth will earn a pin for each rank they pass off in a given year at the county level.

Only senior aged youth can complete rank 5 and will be recognized at the USU Horse and Livestock Symposium.

Youth with multiple horse projects that complete separate rank advancements should be recognized for each independent advancement.

Rank Advancement Level 1

This rank covers the very basics of handling a horse and being safe and successful while interacting with horses. This rank should be easily achieved by all ages, 8 - 18.
