INTERGENERATIONAL POVERTY

- 5 online modules
- Logic model training

COMMUNITY RESOURCES TO ADDRESS INTERGENERATIONAL POVERTY

About IGP Modules Related Resources ▾

Utah State University Extension is partnering with the Utah Intergenerational Welfare Reform Commission to assist counties in their efforts to understand and reduce intergenerational poverty. The driver for this effort is the Intergenerational Poverty Mitigation Act, passed originally by the Utah Legislature in 2012.

Members of the commission include the Utah Lieutenant Governor; the executive directors of the Department of Workforce Service, Department of Human Services, and Department of Health; the superintendent for the Utah State Board of Education; and the administrator for the Juvenile Courts. DWS was designated as the administrative agency for the Commission and is responsible for producing the Intergenerational Poverty Annual Report. A link to the reports is found in the Related Resources dropdown.

Meaningful steps to address persistent poverty in Utah will require community-level energy, innovation, and initiative. USU Extension and members of the commission have created several resources to help counties organize effective community initiatives. Use the link below to access the online modules.

PANEL FEEDBACK

- As a whole the proposals were really good but if yours had some issues it stood out
- List elements of proposal to correspond with required elements in RFP ( the easiest proposals to review had elements listed as: 1. Intro. 2. Literature Review 3. Objectives, etc.) This did at least two good things – ensured no element was left out or included with another element and made reviewing by panel members easy. Happy reviewer = Happy applicant.
- Collaborators should be more than just a name to qualify for maximum funding. Their roles should be clearly stated in the required section.
- Budget narrative should not be a list. It should be written as descriptive sentences. The budget template is the list!
- When RFP states: “Priority will be given to projects that foster collaboration between on and off campus faculty” as the first priority, it must be important.

PANEL FEEDBACK (continued)

- Be clear and concise. Remember that the panel reads many grants - the easier to read and understand, the better!
- Ask questions if needed and have someone review your grant (anyone – someone fully removed from the project is ideal) before you submit.
- Read the RFP and follow the directions exactly as written. Address the sections clearly so the panel doesn't have to search through your text.
- Be descriptive with your objectives and methods. Justify why they are important.
- Provide "Benchmarks for success" – what do you need to do to prove that you are successful with the funding?
