

Culinary Capers

Each family member will draw at least one card from the deck. The number of cards could increase for smaller groups. They'll read their challenge aloud to their family/group members. During food preparation and cooking, participants must act out their kitchen curse cards. If another family member catches them not acting out their curse, they lose a point. The first person with 3 strikes loses the Culinary Capers game, but teamwork continues until the meal is ready to enjoy. Keep working together!

We encourage you to laminate your cards for reuse. Additionally, on the final page, feel free to add your own challenges if you need more cards for your group size.*

You are now Frankenstein;
you may only
communicate
using grunts,
groans and
one-word
phrases

Complete a cooking task
using your
non-dominant hand

After washing
your hands, clap
the wet hands
and twirl them mystically in the air while saying “ABRACADABRA”

Walk along an imaginary
balance beam
while waiting for something to cook

Mimic mashing
potatoes by squatting
down and then
standing back up
when your name
is said

Dance or wiggle
your hips while stirring a pot
or mixing
ingredients

When someone says “Oops”, you must make the sound of a fire
truck siren

Do bicep curls
with a cucumber
or another lightweight object while waiting for something to cook

When you speak,
you must end
each sentence
with “izzle:”
Please pass the carrots-izzle

When someone says "Would you...", bark like a dog

When someone asks you a question, you must say "You talkin' to me?"

While cooking, move stealthily and gracefully as you complete your cooking tasks, using ninja-like movements

Impersonate Daffy Duck while adding each ingredient to the dish

Every time you take a drink at dinner, you must say, "Here's to eating so much, our pants file a missing person report!"

If you have a question, you must first extend your arm straight up and say "Excuse me please, I feel a question coming on"

Every time someone laughs, you must laugh like a witch.

You must replace the names of all kitchen utensils with the word "thingy"

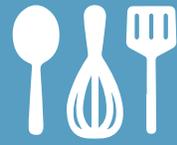

Each time your family tastes a dish while cooking, do a silly dance for 10 seconds before continuing your task
