Biography

Dr. Bryan Boulanger serves as the Engineering Centennial Alumni Endowed Chair for the Kokosing Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering at Ohio Northern University. Bryan is a past recipient of the US EPA's Mission Award, a past US National Academy of Science Research Council Associate, a past DarkSky International's Nocturnal Habitat Protection awardee, and an active conservationist and engineering educator. His work on research to support decision making has led to successful contributions in many different fields. Since 2015, Bryan has focused on developing tools and practices that decision makers can use to reduce the impact of artificial lightscapes on surrounding nocturnal ecosystems, natural resources, and human experiences. His innovative tools, lighting designs, and design recommendations have been used to improve natural lightscapes in managed landscapes and communities throughout the United States and Canada.
