

Hilary Lewkowitz

Colorado Tourism Office

Director of Destination Development & Sustainability

<https://oedit.colorado.gov/colorado-tourism-office>

Biography

Hilary Lewkowitz is the Director of Destination Development & Sustainability at the Colorado Tourism Office, and has worked for the CTO since 2017. Hilary has dedicated her career to the field of sustainable tourism for 13 years. Prior to her work in the tourism industry, she spent over a decade in conservation biology and outdoor education. She is also an adjunct instructor at New York University's Jonathan M. Tisch Center of Hospitality.

Hilary completed her M.S. at the University of Utah in Sustainable Tourism Management and she holds a B.S. in Environmental Science from Humboldt State University. She is an avid climber, trail runner and backcountry skier. She lives in Ridgway, Colorado with her husband, Micah, and their lovable rescue dog, Shakti.

Projects:

Colorado Dark Sky Certification Mentor Program