

Liability Issues and Agritourism Development

Liability Issues and Agritourism Development

"Agritourism is not without its risks. One potential challenge in starting an agritourism business, and successfully managing it, is the issue of liability. An agritourism owner or operator is liable and legally responsible for the safety and well-being of visitors. Ultimately, the best way to protect oneself from being held liable for harm is to learn about liability, and include as many defenses against liability as possible."

View fact sheet