

New Juab County Livestock Coordinator

Kacie Sorensen, Juab County Livestock Coordinator

Greetings, residents of Juab County, I am pleased to introduce myself as your new USU Extension Livestock Coordinator, Kacie Sorensen. Originally from Lake Shore, I recently graduated from USU with a degree in Agribusiness and now reside in Spanish Fork.

My background in agriculture, particularly in the beef industry, stems from my family's operation raising registered black Angus beef on our family farm in Lake Shore. Growing up, I actively participated in 4-H, showing steers and heifers, as well as engaging in 4-H and FFA livestock and horse judging competitions. My passion for agriculture has driven my continuous learning and growth in this field.

I am eager to contribute to the extension program and have already begun familiarizing myself with the community. I am committed to building strong relationships with each of you. One of my key objectives is to increase participation in our Livestock and Horse clubs, especially among young individuals. I aim to create opportunities for involvement, regardless of prior experience in agriculture.

As we witness a gradual decline in agriculture's prominence, it becomes increasingly important to engage the younger generation. Through education and involvement, we can help them understand the significance of agriculture and its impact on our world. Together, we can work towards a more informed and sustainable future for agriculture.
