Summer 2024

Soaring temperatures and long daylight hours are sure signs that we are in the heat of summer. Often, this time of year has many of us rethinking our landscape designs, wondering how to create more shade and sink more rainwater into our land. At the end of July, Dr. Roslynn McCann will teach a free two-hour introduction to permaculture design workshop in Logan, Utah, to help participants envision alternatives to our standard ways of living and landscaping
