

Rae Ann Hart serves as the Administrative Assistant on the Community Based Conservation Project. She has a Bachelor's Degree in Nutrition and Food Science from Utah State University and has worked in the College of Natural Resources at Utah State University for over 20 years. She has administered several large grants for international projects, EPA, USDA, and NSF. Rae Ann is a native Utahn and is happy to work on a project that encourages involvement from local stakeholders. She loves horse racing especially chariot racing. As Rae Ann was growing up, she earned money by raising calves culled from nearby dairy farms. Her favorite pet was a milk goat who was not only a good friend but also donated milk to the calves. Now she keeps busy raising four boys and supervising their summer 4-H lamb and pig projects.
